

BELONGINGS:

Giving Hope, Peace, Joy & Love

On view are personal works of those in the Southlands community, who seek to express their faith through the art forms of photography, digital media, paint, conceptual/ready-made, and assemblage.

The significance of Christ's arrival to earth as prophesied in the book of Isaiah serves as context for a parallel new birth of visual expression for our church as we seek to be a gospel-centered, Spirit empowered community on mission.

In preparation for this Advent Season, the Art@Southlands community has sought to explore the relationship between some of our deepest desires (hope, peace, joy, love) and most prized possessions (nature, relationships, tools, shelter).

Though the Holiday Season serves as the context for the Gallery's use, the greater intent is that after the decorations are put away, and we return to our day-to-day lives, new relationships will have formed and a meaningful dialogue begun about the significance of the incarnation and how we might live in response to a loving God who dwells among us.
